BABLER AND MORSE SPEND THE MONEY

NATIONAL COMMITTEEMEN HELP MORSE TO SPEND MONEY.

OTHER NAMES MENTIONED

Chairman Cole of G. O. P. State Committee Also Received Some of the Harding Money.

Jacob L. Babler, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri, and E. L. (Liv) Morse of Excelsior Springs, Republican boss of the Third Congressional district and active in Republican national politics for many years, yesterday admitted, before an executive session of the Missouri delegation to the Republican National Convention at St. Louis that they received and expended the $32,000 which L. L. Emmerson, treasurer of the Lowden campaign committee, testified before the Senate investigating Committee had been paid to Morse.

Neither offered any details of the manner of the expenditures, but both insisted that all expenditures had been legitimate and that none of the money had been paid to any individual to obtain his support for Lowden.

After the introduction of a resolution inviting an investigation of expenditures of all presidential candidates in Missouri, Morse voluntarily made a statement to the delegates which was repeated by Almon A. Ing, a delegate from Poplar Bluff, Mo., to newspaper men in Morse's presence after the meeting. The Morse statement was as follows:

"I received approximately $32,000 from the Lowden campaign fund, getting the money from L. L. Emmerson, manager of the Lowden campaign. The greater part of this money was turned over by me to Jacob L. Babler, by whom it was spent in furthering Gov. Lowden's candidacy. The balance I spent myself for Gov. Lowden. It was all expended legitimately, and not any of it illegitimately."

Morse, urged by reporters afterward, went into more detail slightly. He said:

Miss Cora Thummel who has been teaching during the past year at Weiser, Idaho, arrived in Maryville last night to spend the summer visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thummel.

ARRIVED HERE 60 YEARS AGO TODAY

"UNCLE STAR" CARMICHAEL DROVE OXEN FROM INDIANA.

BOUGHT FARM FOR $300

120 Acres at $2.50 per Acre Was First Purchase—War News Three Weeks Old When Received.

Sixty years ago today Uncle Star Carmichael arrived in Maryville from Green County, Indiana, having made the trip from that place in a wagon drawn by four oxen and taking them twenty-seven days to make the trip. Accompanying Mr. Carmichael was his wife and two sons. The evening before Uncle Star and his family had reached the east side of the 102 river but there being no bridge for him to cross they remained there until the next day.

When Uncle Star stopped his wagon out in the street in front of the Michau building about ten o'clock of that day, there were but few buildings in town at that time. The Michau building and a little log cabin occupied as a grocery store and run by a Mr. Turpin, where the First National Bank now stands, were about the only business houses in Maryville. A hotel stood on the north side of the square and the court house stood where the present court house now stands, and the jail was located on the northeast of the square. There were no railroads, and no mills here at that time and he often had to go to the Lanning mill on the Platte or on to Bridgewater below Arkoe to get his grinding in order to have something to feed his family on.

He says the little log cabin grocery on the corner made a specialty of good whiskey for 25 cents per gallon, and they had a good business in that line. Uncle Star says he hates to mention that since we have prohibition now and as he has always been an advocate of temperance, knowing he might hurt the feelings of some of his friends, who might want a bracer when there is none to be had.

When Uncle Star arrived in Nodaway County he took up his residence on Clear Creek near Clearmont. He lived on the farm there for two years and then bought 120 acres on this side of Pickering, known as the William Burks' farm, purchasing this tract for $300. When he got ready to pay for it he put in a span of mares, 13 head of cattle for $240, and had to raise $60 to pay the difference. This $60 had to be paid within one year and Uncle Star went to work to raise corn to meet this amount. He raised a good crop of corn, but when he got ready to sell it he had to take five cents a bushel for it and it took about all he raised to pay off the balance on his farm. He lived on this farm for six years and then went down on the bottom of the 102 river and purchased a farm and lived there until six years ago when he moved to Maryville.

"People don't know anything about hard times," Uncle Star says. Continuing he said: "I carried butter from my farm on Clear Creek when the snow was three feet deep and sold it for eight cents a pound and had to beg the storekeeper to take it. In 1862 I and another party took two wagons heavily laden with meat, to St. Joseph and there we sold the sides for four cents, the hams for three and one-half cents, and the shoulders for three cents a pound. We thought we were getting a pretty good price.

"During the Civil War about the only news we got was from the Cincinnati Enquirer, this paper getting here about two or three weeks after it was published. Great crowds would gather on the streets and listen to the news of the war."

His first vote for president was cast for Stephen A. Douglas. He has always been a Democrat in politics.

Some of the men here in 1860 when Mr. Carmichael arrived were George S. Baker, Adam Terhune, Andrew Jenkins, Ben and Henry Torrance.

There were plenty of deer and wild turkey here at that time. Uncle Star says the greatest number of deers he ever saw in one drove was seven. He won his first laurels by being known as Nimrod, but after hunting got scarce he devoted a great deal of his spare time trying to be a fisherman, but he lost some of his reputation in this profession, but his friends have been lenient toward him and have never felt as though he ought to be punished for carrying his measuring rod a little long.

Uncle Star is a friend to everybody and everyone is a friend to him. He is fond of jokes and when on him takes them good naturedly. We hope he will live sixty years longer and see another period of advancement of good old Nodaway County.

COUNTY FAIR ASSOCIATION STARTED AT MEET TODAY

F. P. Robinson Appointed Chairman of Temporary Organization — Ernest Willhoyte Secretary.

An enthusiastic crowd of farmers stock breeders and representative men from all over the county who are supporters of the county fair proposition attended a meeting called at the court house this afternoon for the purpose of organizing a permanent county fair association and formulating plans for its development.

F. P. Robinson was chosen chairman of the meeting and Ernest Willhoyte, secretary.

M. E. Ford, a member of the committee from the Chamber of Commerce, presented the situation as it now is regarding the old fair grounds and stated that it could be purchased for $14,000. The grounds are now owned by E. E. Williams.

The tract contains 22 acres and there are many improvements on the grounds.

After a general discussion of the subject, the meeting voted to appoint a committee of five to work out plans for the organization, purchase of grounds and to take stock subscriptions from all over the county. This committee will be appointed by the chairman, F. P. Robinson, himself forming one member with four others to be selected.

All the church bells of the city were rung at noon today to commemorate the occasion and to join in spirit with the ceremony taking place in France today to honor the American soldier dead buried there.

The First Christian church will be attractively decorated tomorrow for the services which will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. R. C. Snodgrass.

JOHNSON CAMPAIGN FUND $203,000

CALIFORNIA SENATOR'S MANAGER GIVES IN REPORT.

BIG SLUSH FUND MINUS

McCabe Explodes Charges — Largest Individual Contribution by Fleischacker.

Washington, May 29. — Between $100,000 and $125,000 has been raised in California for the campaign to secure the Republican presidential nomination for Senator Johnson, according to the testimony given today by Alexander McCabe, one of Johnson's managers, before the Senate Committee investigating campaign expenditures. McCabe said $25,000 was sent from California to Angus McSween, Johnson's eastern manager at New York City. Charges of the alleged big "slush funds" raised for Johnson's campaign by California millionaires were exploded by McCabe, who said that most of the contributions to the Johnson fund raised in the home state were small and made as a result of appeals throughout California. McCabe declared the largest contribution was $5,000, being that of Herbert Fleischacker of the Anglo-London,Paris bank at San Francisco.

McCabe testified the complete amount raised for Johnson campaign throughout the country was $203,000. He charged the expenditures of the Hoover managers in California would amount to $200,000 or three times the amount raised for Johnson.

SIX MONTHS I COULD NOT WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Me Strong and Able to Work—I Recommend It To All My Friends.

Bayonne, N. J.—"I had pains in back and legs so that I could not stand caused by female trouble. I felt so tired all the time, had bad headaches and for six months I could not work. I was treated by a physician and took other remedies but got no relief. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has helped me very much. I am well and strong and now able to do my work. I cannot thank you enough and I recommend your medicine to my friends who are sick."—Mrs. SUSIE SACATANSKY, 25 East 17th St., Bayonne, N. J.

It must be admitted by every fair-minded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for over forty years, and today hold a record for such wonderful success as does Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every thinking person.

PINK

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

When the breath of spring came through the office window it seemed to Gloria that her imprisonment was doubly hard to bear. Heretofore Gloria had greeted springtime where breezes swept free and fragrant over wide-stretching hills, where daffodils peeped early through the snow of the cottage dooryard.

The cottage had been closed and desolate a long time now, while Glory—as her father used to call her—bent patiently over her desk in the big city.

Miss Linden, one stenographer, was sister to the new manager, and Miss Claire, her assistant, Miss Linden's chosen friend. Glory sighed as a scent of lilacs was borne in upon the air and she wondered wistfully if the bush beside the cottage door was yet in bloom.

It was when the other girls had gone out to lunch, and Gloria had opened her modest packet of sandwiches to enjoy them near the window that a fresh-faced, red-haired young man opened the office door and tentatively peeped in.

"Thought the room was empty," he apologized; "I'm the new help."

"Help?" questioned Glory.

The young man looked as lonely and eager for companionship as herself.

"Come in if you like," she invited.

The young man did like. He was very boyish and very respectful.

"The boss just engaged me," he ingeniously confided. "Make myself useful around in any way that I can." He paused. "Your manager seems rather an all-competent chap; can't see that I am needed at all, but will have to abide by the order of the boss."

"Of course," said Gloria; "and really, there will be lots for you to do, if you're willing. Not that we haven't plenty of help," she added meditatively; "but the work seems to pile up some way—I don't know how. I stay overtime almost every evening to help straighten things out."

"Don't the others stay, too?" the young man asked. He had seated himself upon the desk, and accepted enjoyably one of Gloria's sandwiches.

"Oh, I don't mind staying," she said, trying to eradicate her suggestion of complaint. "It doesn't matter to me where I am, anyway. My boarding room isn't very pleasant. You know," she explained, "how it is, with everything so high?"

The young man nodded understandingly.

"I guess you'd better go now," Gloria said as she removed evidences of her feast; "noon hour is over."

"Which one are you?" he asked; "Miss—"

"Dale," she answered; "Gloria Dale. And you?"

He laughed at her.

"I never get my own name," he said. "Sounds too dignified for a curly red-head. Folks usually call me 'Pink.' Everybody'll be doing it here before a week."

Gloria smiled at the pink face, beneath the bright hair. It was a nice, good face, she thought.

"Good-by, Pink," she said mischievously, and bent, cheered to her work. Miss Linden and Miss Claire smiled contemptuously as days passed, and 'Pink' was often to be found beside Glory's chair. It was evident that the old-young office boy had installed himself as her champion.

The work heaped up for Glory to do after hours diminished rapidly with his assistance.

"Why, you are wonderful, Pink," she told him. "You have such clever ways of working."

"The manager doesn't appear to see it," he told her airily; "he'd fire me any day if it wasn't for the boss.

When these young men, in company with Miss Linden and Miss Claire, started for the theater or drive, Pink would come, with the diffidence he always evinced in Glory's presence.

"I wish," he'd say, "that you would walk with me down to the park. It's great to watch the moon shining on the water. I suppose I ought to ask you to go to the theater instead, Glory, but—"

"I wouldn't let you take me, Pink," she would firmly reply; "theater tickets are too great a luxury for you or me."

For Gloria knew that the new employee's salary was less than her meager own. But there's a charm in moonlit waters, not to be found in crowded places, and Pink and his little friend—lonely no longer—grew close to each other, on these enchanted evenings.

Then one day when Gloria bent confused beneath the impatient hurried dictation of the manager, the great boss himself walked into the office with Pink at his side. "One moment, Linden," the head of the Meredith firm commanded. "My son wishes to talk with you concerning a new order of things. We must be practically reorganized here, and he will take complete charge."

"My son has been qualified as an efficiency expert, and has in his own way selected to look our place over."

The manager arose.

"Pink!—your son?" he gasped.

The great boss bowed.

"Otherwise, Paul John Meredith," he said.

"Come here, Glory," Pink cried; and when she had come, wide-eyed and prettily flushing, Paul John Meredith turned to his father.

"'This is the girl I'm going to marry, dad,' he said.

BURLINGTON JCT. BUSINESS MEN TO HAVE "WHITE WAY"

Each Business House Will Furnish One High Powered Light to be Run on Own Meter.

Arrangements have been made for lighting Burlington Junction's business section in the manner in which it should be lighted, and the system is to be installed within the near future.

On Monday some one hit upon the happy plan of each business man installing a bracket with a high power light in front of his building, to be run off his own meter. Rev. Ernest Snider volunteered to do the soliciting, and before night had secured the promise of thirty-five lights. With only one of two exceptions the business men all agreed to install the lights.

Late Monday afternoon Rev. Snider, Dr. G. C. Trusty and G. L. Yaple went to Maryville to confer with officials of the Maryville Light & Power Co., with the end in view of securing the fixtures from that firm and having them installed. A suitable fixture was selected, and Tuesday Manager Hellmers came to Maryville and inspected the biuldings here to form an estimate of what the cost of installing will be. He estimated that the fixtures, installed, will cost about $20 each, and he was told to order them at once.

So that within a very short time Burlington Junction's Main street will be as well lighted as any city's principal business section. — Burlington Junction Post.

UNIONS LAUNCH GIGANTIC DEFENSE OF ORGANIZATION

Machinists Raise Over Four Million to Support Defense Program for the Year.

Washington, May 29.—Union labor is raising a gigantic defense fund to fight what it claims as a nation wide campaign by big employers to smash the union trade movement. The national association of machinists is raising a fund of $4,250,000 per year to support a defense program by assessing each of its 50,000 members a dollar per month. Other international organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are said to be levying a like amount. Labor leaders declared here this is the beginning of a "life and death" struggle for unions.

"It will be impossible for me to tell exactly where the money went without referring to my records, which are in my office at Excelsior Springs, but I will say that all I spent was for traveling expenses, telephones, telegrams and for work done for Gov. Lowden, and not one cent went to any individual to obtain his vote in the convention or his support for Lowden.

"Several thousand dollars was expended by me in working for Lowden in other states. I visited Oklahoma, Kentucky, West Virginia and other states, and made a number of trips to ashington, D. C., in furthering his candidacy.

"The greater part of my work was in Washington where I met influential Republicans from other states and attempted to induce them to support Lowden."

Ing said Babler stated he had received a large portion of the money that Morse said he obtained from Emmerson, and that he expended it for legitimate purposes in connection with the Lowden campaign.

Babler afterward made the following statement to reporters:

"The money came to me not as an advance from the Lowden campaign fund but as a repayment to me for money I already had expended out of my personal funds. When I first became interested in the Lowden candidacy I began working for him throughout Missouri. I spent approximately $2,000 of my own money, and feeling that was all I could do, I told Mr. Emmerson that I could go no farther personally. He then told me that I would be reimbursed for such expenditures as I made.

"I have been reimbursed through Mr. Morse.

"I expended the muony in stirring up sentiment for Lowden in all parts of the state, paying the expenses of a large number of men who visited the counties for Lowden. Much of it went for telephone calls and telegrams. I have not paid any delegate to vote for Lowden and have not paid anybody for his support of Lowden. Every expenditure has been legitimate."

After hearing Babler and Morse the delegates adopted a resolution asking the Senate Committee to make a thorough investigation of campaign expenditures of all presidential candidates in Missouri. Babler and Morse expressed to the delegates a willingness to appear before the Senate Committee and give details of the expenditures.

Resolution for Investigation.

The resolution for an investigation, which was introduced by President Louis P. Aloe of the Board of Aldermen, a supporter of Senator Spencer, read:

Resolved, That we court the widest possible investigation of the expenditure of campaign funds in Missouri in the interest of the candidacies of Gen. Wood, Gov. Lowden, Senator Johnson, Sen. Harding and all other presidential candidates, and the delegation stands committed to the widest possible publicity for such investigation to the end that all the facts may be ascertained.

W. L. Cole of Union, Mo., chairman of the Republican State Committee, arriving in St. Louis yesterday for a meeting at the Missouri delegation to the national convention, stated to the Post-Dispatch what disposition he had made of $1250 he received from Harry M. Daugherty, manager of the presidential campaign of Senator Harding of Ohio. He acknowledged receipt of the money yesterday to the Post-Dispatch over the telephone from Union after Daugherty had testified, to sending it, before the Senate Investigating Committee in ashington.

He declared that he had spent some of the money in going to congressional district conventions trying to pave the way for Harding as second choice of the Missouri delegates, and that he thought that his expenses, with some compensation for the time spent, would amount to between $500 and $600. He said that he would return the balance to Daugherty, at the same time submitting an itemized account of his expenditures.

The organization slate for the organization of the delegation went through without a hitch, none of the slate candidates being opposed, and all being elected by the unanimous vote of the 31 delegates present at the state meeting.

Babler was re-elected National Committeeman; John Schmoll of St. Louis, chairman of the delegation. Robert Flick of Kansas City, secretary of the delegation; Chairman W. L. Cole of the State Committee of Union, member of the Resolutions Committee; W. H. Allen of Clinton, member of the Credentials Committee; Roy H. Monier of Carrollton, member of the committee on organization; Dr. Ed S. Brown of Edina, member of the committee to notify the presidential nominee of his nomination, and Dr. J. R. A. Crossland of St. Joseph, a negro, on the committee to notify the nominee for vice-president.

Other Names Brought In.

Piedmont, Mo., May 29.—Grover C. Stephens, Republican candidate for state senator, made this statement yesterday about "Liv" Morse, Jacob L. Babler, Nat Goldstein and the $32,000 Lowden fund sent to Missouri:

"I saw Mr. Morse personally in Kansas City Wednesday in conversation with W. H. Hallett of Nevada, Mo. Morse admitted handling Lowden funds in this state and will be able to account for this distribution at the proper time. Morse exhibited cancelled vouchers to W. L. Cole and J. L. Babler amounting to $22,000 and to Judge T. W. Hukriede for $2,000.

Stephens also stated that John Albus of St. Joseph, who contested the seating of the Wood delegation from that city at the recent state convention, handled $1,500. Stephens continued:

"When Morse learned that Babler denied receiving any of the $32,000 funds he immediately called him by telephone from Kansas City and said: 'Jake, you made a hell of a break. Why didn't you wait until you saw me before making a statement about the Lowden funds in Missouri? Now, I am going to be compelled to let it be known that I sent you a part of the money and it is going to put you in a bad hole.' "

A THOROUGH INVESTIGATION IS DEMANDED BY PIERCE.

W. C. Pierce of Maryville, widely known in Republican political circles in Missouri, sent this letter yesterday to W. L. Cole, chairman of the Republican state commitee:

"We are disgraced by the fact that $40,000 was sent into this state when there was no primary or other legitimate excuse for the expenditure of money. As a reasonable man neither you, nor I are prepared to believe that the money was sent in any proper way to further the interests of, or to create sentiment for any particular candidate.

"It is sad we have so conduced ourselves that every four years the managers for some presidential candidate look upon the Republicans of this state as a set of grafters and seek to handle them like cattle through some disreputable manipulators within the party. In my opinion it is your solemn duty as the head of the Republican organization in the state to institute a full, thorough and sweeping investigation, find out exactly who got the money and in what hands it finally stopped. It's no time for passing the buck. It's no time to say it is the duty of this committee or that committee. It is time to say the money was passed to somebody else and to refuse to divulge the name of that person.

"It is more than passing strange that a man holding a public office and one of his clerks both should be delegates to the national convention and each be the recipient, if the record is right, of $2,500 dollar checks. I plead with you in the name of the decent Republicans of this state to do as I have suggested. Let's clear the asmosphere. Let's find out who is disgracing us by leading outsiders to believe that the Republicans of Missouri are mere chattels. Let's then pollute the streams of this state with the dirty carcasses of the guilty parties.

"I understand that the Chicago delegates are meeting in St. Louis today for conference. This matter should be presented to them because there are in that assembly some of the very best Republicans in the state whom we all know are not parties to this boodling program and they are therefore interested with other decent Republicans in seeing that every dollar is traced to its final resting place so that the world may know."

BOOKLET SHOWS THAT EDUCATION PAYS.

Columbia, Mo., May 29. — "After High School—What next?" is the title of a booklet now being sent out from the University of Missouri, dealing in a general way with the dollar value of a university education and in particular showing the opportunities in salaries for teachers of vocational agriculture.

In connection with the vocational agriculture work, the fact is pointed out that there are, for every man available, ten to twelve positions open at beginning salaries from $1,800 to $2,000.

That time spent getting a university education is not lost in the long run is shown in a table comparing the relative earning powers of a high school graduate and of a university graduate. Although the man who starts work as soon as he is out of high school accumulates about $3,100 in wages while the other man is completing his education, figures in the table go to show that in his first four years out of school a university graduate earns more than a high school graduate in his first eight.

From then on the race becomes more and more unequaled. Twelve years after his graduation from high school (including the four years spent going to school) the average university-trained man has earned $29,000, while his high school chum who stopped there has a total of about $14,500.

And besides this difference in earning capacity, the booklet goes on to explain, the university graduate has an education which cannot be measured in dollars and cents. He is better able to enjoy his advantages. Quoting from figures gathered by the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, it shows that the farm house of the average agricultural college graduate was valued at $2,558, while that of the average high school graduate was valued at $1,764. The college man not only has a better income, but also enjoys more comforts and conveniences.

Male and Female!

GLORIA SWANSON in CECIL B. DeMILLE'S 'MALE and FEMALE' A Paramount Artcraft Picture

Cecil B. DeMille Production

So Fate seized them—a snobbish family of British blue-bloods. Cast them on an island where the voice of the world was lost. Tumbled them, lord and butler, lady and scullery maid, into a common mass of males and females. Laughed at their former glories, their former handicaps. Pointed to an untamed jungle, ruled only by wild beasts, and said: "Now we shall see who rules."

Then the butler, because he was a man, became a king; and the great lady who once disdained him, served, loved him—fought with a slavey for his kiss!

One day a ship! Rescue! Home! The old world and its old ways. Its pride, conventions, shallow distinctions. Did the true love, the true leadership, of the wilds hold them? Come and see.

A romance that searches deep into human hearts. A picture, poignant, powerful, tremendous in its scope, superb in its artistry—destined to rank as a thrilling climax to "Old Wives for New," "Don't change Your Husband," "For Better, For Worse," "Till I Come Back to You," and all the other great De Mille achievements.

You'll never forget "Male and Female!"
